DISCLAIMER: The ethos of the IVRA is that veganism is the lived expression of ethical responsibility to nonhuman animals. The IVRA promotes the legal protection of veganism to contribute to dismantling speciesist prejudice, support and give confidence to vegans and to encourage change in social policies and practices that overlook the marginalisation of veganism. As such, the IVRA does not necessarily support or condone the missions, policies or practices of participating organisations and the opinions, views and presentations of participating speakers do not necessarily reflect those of the IVRA. In addition, participating organisations do not necessarily support or condone the strategies and policies of each other but come together in recognition that veganism is an important issue for law and legal practice.
